BRIEF ABSTRACT OF LETTER.

Submit proposals for deputation of 2 Students to

NOTES AND ORDERS.

Rev.
My dear Sir,

Concerning my interview with you regarding the recruitment of the Controlling Staff of the Forest Department, I beg to submit the following proposals for your favourable consideration.—

Owing to faulty recruitment in past years and to the poor training which the bulk of the senior Rangers have undergone in our forests great difficulty is experienced in securing qualified men to fill vacancies in the higher grades of the service. There are at present three vacancies in the Controlling Staff which cannot be filled for some years to come owing to the death of Sub Assistants and senior Rangers with the requisite educational and technical qualifications. This state of affairs, I fear, will continue until some of our latest recruits, some of whom are the Graduates of the Madras University have gained some experience in practical forest management. The technical education even of these men is not of a high order as the Imperial Forest School go astray. Applicationsof wrong principles the effect of which may not be apparent to a casual observer, but which might be disastrous to the interests of the public remain therefore undetected, endangering the safety of the forests.

A Forest Officer to be efficient and useful must be a many-sided man. Besides being versed in the technicalities of his profession he must know something of engineering, a good deal of surveying and a bit of agriculture; and above all he must be possessed of keen observing powers and enthusiasm for his profession, for without these his other qualifications will be of little avail. It is therefore clear that we cannot be too discriminating in the choice of ~~the~~ candidates for the Forest Service and too particular in giving them the highest training.

The forest wealth of the State is very great. It is true that our accessible forests, and these comprise all the teak forests, have been ruined by over exploitation and faulty treatment, but there are vast extents of other forests in more remote localities which though containing materials not in much local demand can be profitably worked by finding a market outside the Province for their contents. The exploitation of their hidden wealth needs enterprise and skill. Having regard to the vast extent of our forests and the richness of their resources, I can emphatically assert that we are not deriving from them even one fourth the revenue they are capable of yielding under thorough and energetic management. Even the ruined teak forests are capable of being restored to normal condition under skilled treatment.

Our pressing need, however, is skilled officers with a certain amount of zeal and enthusiasm for their calling. The bulk of our officers cannot be said to possess the necessary qualification. They are too prone to take life easy by entrusting their duties to their subordinates; and most of them are unaccustomed to the rough life of a Forester, so that when any important work that requires personal attention is expected of them, they either shirk it or grumble that it is too hard for them.

The question, therefore, arises as to how to secure officers with the requisite qualifications.

We cannot secure them by loan from the British Government, for the native service is still young there; and hence suitable men are not available. The only alternative therefore is to train them in the same way as the British Government does. This involves the deputation of suitable young men to Europe for education in the Forestry Colleges there. The Coopers Hill College having been abolished, there is no other institution in the British Empire for the training of Forest Officers. There are, however, several in France and Germany, and the best of them are found in the latter country to which students from all parts of the world resort. The foremost of these colleges is Eberswalde in Prussia which trains officers for the superior branch of the German Forest Service. Dr. Lehmann has been kind enough to obtain the following information regarding this College :--

The course in the Academy consists of 4 terms of six months each, but before joining the Academy a student must have undergone a practical course in the forests for six months and have attended a German University for at least six months. As a knowledge of the German language is a SINE QUA NON, an Indian

at least five officers of the highest training viz, one for the administrative charge, three for the charge of our three major districts, Mysore, Shimoga and Kadur, and one to take the place of any one on leave.

During the first year I propose to send only two young men, three years hence, two more and in the fifth year one. None but graduates with an aptitude for forest life may be sent.

For one of these scholarships, I would select B. V. Ramayengar, B. A., a 1st grade Ranger in the Department - who passed out with Honors from Dehra two years ago. He is a very intelligent young man, and is sure to acquit himself well. There are two other young men equally good, viz, Sub Assistant Krishnamurti Naidu and Ranger Varadachar, B.A., but as they are burdened with family encumbrances are not likely to accept cheerfully the offer of a scholarship.

I would leave the choice of a second student to you, sir. I have already brought to your notice the case of my eldest son. He is 22 years of age healthy, robust and active. He has passed the 619

With regard to the pay and future prospects of men who return with diplomas, I beg to suggest that the initial pay be fixed at Rs.250, and thereafter they may be allowed an increase of Rs.50 for every three years of approved service until they get Rs.350 after which their promotions would depend upon vacancies in the Deputy Conservator's grade. A promise may also be held out that, provided their work be found satisfactory, preference will be given to them in the choice of First Grade Assistant Conservators for promotion to the Deputy Conservator's grade. Government need not hold out any hopes of employment to men who fail to obtain a diploma or whose conduct and career in Germany have not been such as to make them efficient Forest Officers

With these remarks I venture to commend my proposals strongly to your consideration.

I beg to remain,

Sir,

Yours most faithfully

My dear Sir,

In continuation of my letter of the 7th June last, I beg to send herewith copy of a letter received from Mr E.E. Fernandez who for many years was Deputy Director at the Imperial Forest School, Dehra, and latterly Conservator of Forests-Berars- having retired from service only in December last. He is the author of several text books on Indian Forestry and is universally recognised as one of the highest authorities on Indian Forestry. His counsel is, therefore, entitled to much weight and respect. It will be seen that he advises us to send our young men to Oxford to study along with the --- cadets for the Indian Forest Service, and suggests that they be placed under the direction of some one who knows the needs of India. It will also be noticed that he agrees with me as to the necessity of our securing Forest Officers with better education than that possessed by the average Forest Officer of the Government of India. His advice that the education of our young men should comprise a thorough instruction in the best method of distilling essential oils, preparing tannin extracts and manufacture of wood pulp for which inexhaustible supply of raw materials are available in our Province- seems to be deserving of earnest consideration.

I remain,

Yours very faithfully

My dear Muttamah,

x x x x

Now as regards the proposed deputation of the two graduates to study Forestry in Europe. In future the cadets for the Indian Forest Service are to be trained at Oxford by Messrs Schlich & Fisher. They will do their first two years there as they did at Cooper's Hill and their third and last year in Germany. The Forestry course will be open to any private student at the University who is properly qualified in Science to follow it. How this qualification is to be judged is not yet known, but the University will shortly publish a Memo. on the subject a copy of which I will procure and send to you. In any case, I feel sure that your two young men will and for this reason its foremost Forest Officers should be better educated than the average Forest Officer of the Government of India. It is to this inferiority of their Forest Officers that is due to the slow progress made under the Government of India. The Department has existed in Burmah since 1856 and yet the process of the reproduction of teak is still a mystery!!! Since Sir D. Brandis retired from India we have not had a single competent Inspector General. Mr Ribbentrop threw back the Department by more years than he held that post.

Under their special tutor or guardian your two probationers should not only study special branches of the auxiliary sciences at Oxford, but also special methods of forestry on the continent and the best methods of distilling essential oils, making tannin extracts, wood pulp, &c. As my time is entirely my own and I take a deep interest in the welfare and progress of India, I should be glad to place my services at the disposal of your Government. Whoever is appointed (and some one should be appointed),

In continuation of my letter

My dear Muttannah,

I could not write to you earlier, as I have only just been able to secure a copy of the India Office Blue Book, which I am posting to you with this. From the Blue Book you will see that the Indian Government probationers are to be trained at Oxford for a period of only 3 years certain. Cambridge is so strong against the Oxford monopoly, that I am sure they will at once take measures to start the teaching of Forestry in connection with the Agricultural course so as to break the monopoly when the provisional three years come to an end. It is absurd for Sir D. Brandis and Dr Schlich to have said that competent teachers of Forestry are not to be had in the market. Why there are Dr the India Office professors will for certain remain attached to that University. At pp 69 & 70 of the Blue Book are given the subjects which they should know before entering. You will of course select the best science graduates you can get. As graduates of an Indian University, they will be remitted one year of attendance at Oxford for an Oxford degree (See p. 17 of the Blue Book, passage marked by me). It would be well both for the State and for the men themselves that they should take an Oxford degree also.

The cost to the students will be for the first two years (including vacations) not less than £180 and for the third year about £200. If your Government appoints a guardian here, he could see that the cost was reduced to the lowest figure possible, the students at the same time being free from the risk of being required to spend from their private resources.

As I said in my previous letter, I shall be glad to help your Government in any way I can.

Sir,

You were good enough to tell me that I have been recommended to government for deputation to England to undergo an advanced course of training in forestry and that I shall most probably have to join college when the next term begins.

I have been given to understand that the Forestry College at Oxford opens on 1st October next. I am at present here on leave, and as there is not much time

27
Bangalore.

27th August 1903.

My dear Sir,

I beg to forward herewith for your information copy of a letter received this morning from Mr.
Fernandez, retired Customs Inspector.

It will be noted that he is anxious that the young men selected for the Forestry training should reach England as early as possible, so that they may be able to join the College when the term opens on the 10th Oct^r. There is therefore no time to lose in deciding the question.

Mr. Fernandez expects very high qualifications from our men; but it is hardly necessary for me to mention that it's not easy to secure young men combining in themselves high University qualifications with good sound physique and aptitude for that life. Of course we could do better by selection of first class graduates but need then take to final life. It seems to me that in our particular profession good robust constitution, sound education and an aptitude for midday life are more desirable than high University qualifications.

Indeed among the European officers of the British Service there are not 2 or 3 that are graduates of our University.

Our men should get the best training that can be had in Europe but in order to receive it high literary education doesn't

My dear Muttanah,

I have received your letters of the 13th and 20th ultimo, in the latter of which you state that the Dewan has accepted your recommendations without modification and that it only remained to obtain H. H.'s approval.

Assuming such approval, the two men should arrive here at least a fortnight before the 10th October, when the University Term opens. The fortnight will be necessary to make and complete all needful arrangements for providing the men with requisites and for settling them at Oxford. I am not sure at this moment whether it will be better for the men to reside at a College or Hall or be non-collegiate (i.e. live in licensed lodgings outside a college or hall). If the matter is left to me

I shall make the cheapest arrangement I can, consistent with the necessary conveniences for study.

It will be very desirable to get the men to take an Oxford degree. Graduates of Indian Universities are excused 4 out of the 12 terms of residence, that is to say, they can take their degree after only two years of residence. Your men will be 2 years at Oxford before going for their practical training to Germany and will therefore pass the necessary qualification.

In the ordinary course there are three sets of examinations to pass for a degree, viz (1) Responsions, (2) the First Public Examination, and (3) the 2nd Public exam.: Your men will be exempted from Responsions in any case, and if they have graduated in India in Honours (1st class, I suppose), they will be let off also no. 2. Otherwise they will have to pass that exam.:, taking up a prescribed book in Sanskrit and in addition showing a certain moderate proficiency in Sanskrit and Latin and qualifying either in logic or the elements of Geometry and of Algebra. If the men do not know Latin already, getting it up will mean time taken away from professional studies. But I imagine both your men will be 1st class graduates.

But your men will return to Mysore with Oxford University Honours, as well as a good knowledge of their profession. They will indeed be men to be envied by the other officers of the State.

If the Durbar assents, I would propose a further year's course at the University of Munich, where one of the prominent professors is a great friend of mine and I could guarantee every attention being given to your men. This would be a sort of post-graduate course, perfecting their knowledge of their profession. If they did well, the Munich University would confer the Doctor's degree on them - a circumstance that would reflect great prestige on the Mysore Forest Service and State. If India is to take early rank with the most advanced European countries, her

The accompanying letters from Mr. Muttanna refer to the deputation of two students to study Forestry in the University of Oxford, along with the cadets of the Indian Forest Service, under the two India Office Professors, Messrs. Schlich and Fisher, who now remain attached to that University. Mr. E.E. Fernandez, who was for many years Deputy Director at the Imperial Forest School, Dehra, and latterly Conservator of Forests, Berars, before he retired from service in December last, and whom Mr. Muttanna has consulted, has given much useful information regarding the course of study and other particulars. The course is stated to extend to three years, two of which will be at the University and the third in Germany. The best candidates we can get, have to be selected and Mr. Nuttall already at Bangor, etc.

Ramón Fyfe is one of them. The two professors are to study not only special branches of the auxiliary sciences at Oxford, but also special methods of chemistry in the Northwest and the best methods of distilling essential oils, making tincture extracts, wood pulp, etc. The cost to the students will be for the first two years (including vacations) not less than $1500.00 for the third year about $2000.00.

If Mr. Fernandez is appointed as a professor, he is authorized to visit the students at Oxford 2 or 3 times during each term and send reports regarding the progress made by them. He wants no remuneration for himself, but only expects all his out of pocket money being reimbursed to him.

The College opens in October next and the selected students have to reach England as early as possible before that month. It should be decided if the Councilors will record their opinion.

Submitted to His Highness.

My note to the Councillors explains the desirability of taking advantage of the present opportunity at Oxford to get two of our students trained in Forestry. The Indian Office has arranged for a special course and outside students are also admitted. B.V. Rama Iyengara B.A. has already undergone a course at Dehra Dhun and is now employed as a Ranger. He appears to turn out a good Forest Officer. The other student who has passed the language branches is Machaiya, Mr. Muttanna's son. He is young and active and is likely to become a useful officer. A scholarship of £180 for the first two years and of £200 for the third year to each of the students is necessary. Mr. Fernandez who was Conservator of Berars and retired only in December last has promised to look after the students and send up periodical reports of their progress. He only wants his out of pocket expenses to be paid and wants no remuneration for

As regards equipment and out-fit all round I have no data to go upon. From the information gathered from gentlemen who have been to England it amounts from £ 50 to £ 70.

In the case of students sent to America a Govt. sanctioned an out-fit all round of £ 70. vide Govt. Pro. No 213-219-1132-1138 dated 27th Feb 4, 1902, but this includes boarding charges for one month's stay in England, the cost of which may be put down at £ 20/-. According to this precedent-the out-fit all round may be fixed ^{at} £ 50/- for each.
